Silver Chef accredited as Aon Hewitt Best Employer

Leading Australian business equipment financier Silver Chef Limited (ASX Code: SIV) today announced its accreditation as a 2013 Aon Hewitt Best Employer.

To achieve Aon Hewitt Best Employer accreditation status, Silver Chef passed all three stages of the accreditation process.

The first stage is an Employee Opinion Survey (EOS). If an organisation reaches an engagement score benchmark of 65% or higher they then complete a People Practices Inventory (PPI). In the final stage, Aon Hewitt validates all the data and information received in an organisational audit.

"The Aon Hewitt Best Employers in Australia and New Zealand study is the largest employee research project and market practice audit in Australia and New Zealand", said Stephen Hickey, Aon Hewitt's employee engagement practice lead.

"Accreditation under this program represents a significant accomplishment and demonstrates that Silver Chef has consistently achieved excellence in engaging and supporting its workforce."

"Silver Chef was particularly impressive in its focus on customer service and its 'Brightness of Future' program which has influenced employee engagement and has contributed to its accreditation as a Best Employer and they can be very proud of their accreditation status."

Silver Chef CEO Charles Gregory said the accreditation would reinforce Silver Chef's status as an employer of choice and help it to attract the best talent in a competitive employment market.

"This result is a great endorsement of the workplace we and our people have created and their enthusiastic support of Silver Chef," Mr Gregory said.

"Importantly, this accolade allows Silver Chef to retain and attract the best people in the market to continue growing business into the future."
